Foy Vance is a singer and songwriter hailing from Bangor, Northern Ireland who just released his highly anticipated fourth studio album Signs of Life. Throughout his long career, Foy has received critical praise and support for his music from the likes of Ed Sheeran, Snow Patrol, Sir Elton John, Bonnie Raitt and Marcus Foster. In 2015, Foy became the second artist signed to Gingerbread Man Records, Ed Sheeran's label division within Atlantic Records, where his debut label project The Wild Swan was Executive Produced by Sir Elton John. Signs Of Life, will mark Foy's second studio album 'proper' on Gingerbread Man Records and the follow-up to The Wild Swan.

Artists describe Foy's writing as bluesy, vivid, and confessional while following pop's melodic contour. Foy's collaborations include co-writing four cuts on Ed Sheeran's 2017 album Divide ("Galway Girl," "Nancy Mulligan," "Barcelona," and "What Do I Know"), and four songs on his 2014 album Multiply ("Tenerife Sea," "Afire Love," "Touch and Go," and "Make It Rain"). Beyond his history with Ed, Foy has co-written songs for Alicia Keys ("Underdog"), Miranda Lambert ("Pushin' Time"), Keith Urban ("Burden"), Rag N' Bone Man ("Odetta") and his songs have been covered by H.E.R and Keith Urban. Foy has also appeared as a featured artist on Rudimental's "Never Let You Go" and ILLENIUM's "Blood." Foy has maintained a strong sync history throughout his career, licensing his songs to Amazon, Verizon, Quaker, Magnum P.I. and Saint Archer.
